2. 1. 1.

1. 1. 1.

The second factor is the type of information that is being communicated. The type of information that is being communicated is a function of the type of decision that is being made. For example, if the decision is a strategic decision, then the information that is being communicated is likely to be high-level and summary in nature. On the other hand, if the decision is a tactical decision, then the information that is being communicated is likely to be more detailed and specific in nature.
