1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1861. It is a very important document, as it sets out the policy of the new administration. The President states that he is committed to the principles of liberty and justice for all, and that he will work to maintain the Union. He also mentions the issue of slavery, which was a major point of contention at the time.

2. The second part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Treasury, dated January 1, 1861. It provides a detailed account of the financial state of the country. The report mentions the national debt, which had increased significantly since the end of the Civil War. It also discusses the various sources of revenue, such as taxes and customs duties, and the government's efforts to manage the budget.

3. The third part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 1, 1861. It discusses the state of the public lands, which were a major source of revenue for the government. The report mentions the various uses of the land, such as agriculture, mining, and timber. It also discusses the government's efforts to manage the land, including the establishment of national parks and the regulation of mining activities.
