THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

PHYSICAL CHEMISTRY

LECTURE NOTES

These lecture notes are intended to provide a comprehensive overview of the topics covered in the Physical Chemistry course. The course is designed to provide students with a solid foundation in the principles of physical chemistry, and these notes are intended to complement the lectures and provide additional information and examples. The topics covered include thermodynamics, quantum mechanics, and statistical mechanics. The notes are organized into chapters, each covering a specific topic. The first chapter covers thermodynamics, including the laws of thermodynamics, the definition of entropy, and the calculation of thermodynamic properties. The second chapter covers quantum mechanics, including the Schrödinger equation, the wave function, and the calculation of energy levels. The third chapter covers statistical mechanics, including the partition function, the calculation of thermodynamic properties, and the derivation of the Boltzmann distribution. The notes are written in a clear and concise style, and are intended to be used as a reference for students throughout the course.
