the same time, the same person may be a member of several different groups. For example, a person may be a member of a family, a community, a nation, and a religion. The groups that a person belongs to may be defined by their social roles, their shared values, or their common interests. The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their geographical location, their age, or their gender.

The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their social status. For example, a person may be a member of a high social class, a middle social class, or a low social class. The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their social roles. For example, a person may be a parent, a teacher, a doctor, or a student.

The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their shared values. For example, a person may be a member of a group that values freedom, a group that values equality, or a group that values tradition. The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their common interests. For example, a person may be a member of a group that is interested in sports, a group that is interested in art, or a group that is interested in science.

The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their geographical location. For example, a person may be a member of a group that lives in a city, a group that lives in a suburb, or a group that lives in a rural area. The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their age. For example, a person may be a member of a group that is young, a group that is middle-aged, or a group that is old.

The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their gender. For example, a person may be a member of a group that is male, a group that is female, or a group that is transgender. The groups that a person belongs to may also be defined by their social roles. For example, a person may be a member of a group that is a parent, a group that is a teacher, a group that is a doctor, or a group that is a student.

NOTES

Show the full forenames, NOT INITIALS. If the director or secretary is a corporation or Scottish firm, show the name on surname line and registered or principal office on the usual residential line.

Give previous forenames or surname(s) except:

- for a married woman, the name by which she was known before marriage need not be given.
- for names not used since the age of 18 or for at least 20 years

A peer or individual known by a title may state the title instead of or in addition to the forenames and surname and need not give the name by which that person was known before he or she adopted the title or succeeded to it.

Other directorships.

Give the name of every company incorporated in Great Britain of which the person concerned is a director or has been a director at any time in the past five years.

You may exclude a company which either is, or at all times during the past five years when the person concerned was a director, was

- dormant
- a parent company which wholly owned the company making the return, or
- another wholly owned subsidiary of the same parent company.
