This template illustrates what the Regulator of Community Interest Companies considers to be best practice for completing a simplified community interest company report. All such reports must be delivered in accordance with section 34 of the Companies (Audit, Investigations and Community Enterprise) Act 2004 and contain the information required by Part 7 of the Community Interest Company Regulations 2005. For further guidance see chapter 8 of the Regulator's guidance notes and the alternate example provided for a more complex company with more detailed notes

PART 1 - GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE COMPANY'S ACTIVITIES AND IMPACT

In the space provided below, please insert a general account of the company's activities in the financial year to which the report relates, including a fair and accurate description of how they have benefited the community, or section of the community, which the company is intended to serve.

The An-Naseeha Foundation was set up for the benefit of the Muslim community by way of providing Muslims with access to educational conferences and seminars specifically designed to educate them about their faith in the English language, a language many British Muslims relate too. During the financial year 2013-2014, An-Naseeha Foundation has benefited the Muslim community by way of:

- :: Organising free educational lectures dealing with a wide variety of topics, including combating issues such as Forced Marriages and Extremism.
- :: In addition to this we have also produced and distributed free educational material such as CD's and distributed them in the community.
- :: Continued to deliver the Friday sermon in the English language, promoting community cohesion, and also tackling issues such as drugs, grooming, extremism etc.

1. Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of the proposed system on the performance of the participants. The study was conducted in a controlled environment and the results are presented in the following sections.

The study was designed to evaluate the impact of the system on the participants' performance. The participants were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group was not exposed to the system, while the experimental group was exposed to the system for a period of four weeks.

The results of the study show that the proposed system has a significant positive effect on the performance of the participants. The experimental group showed a significant improvement in performance compared to the control group. The improvement was observed in all the measured variables, including the number of correct answers, the time taken to complete the task, and the number of errors.

The study also found that the proposed system has a significant positive effect on the participants' satisfaction. The experimental group reported a higher level of satisfaction compared to the control group. This suggests that the system is not only effective in improving performance but also in enhancing the user experience.

The study was limited by the sample size and the duration of the experiment. A larger sample size and a longer duration would have provided more robust results. However, the findings of this study suggest that the proposed system has a positive impact on performance and satisfaction.

The study was conducted in a controlled environment, which may not fully represent the real-world situation. Future studies should investigate the effects of the system in a more naturalistic setting. Additionally, the study did not measure the long-term effects of the system, which should be investigated in future research.

In conclusion, the proposed system has a significant positive effect on the performance and satisfaction of the participants. The study suggests that the system is a promising tool for improving performance and enhancing the user experience.

PART 2 – CONSULTATION WITH STAKEHOLDERS – Please indicate who the company's stakeholders are; how the stakeholders have been consulted and what action, if any, has the company taken in response to feedback from its consultations? If there has been no consultation, this should be made clear.

The stakeholders of the company are members of the Muslim community. The directors of the company have been involved for many years in organising educational conferences and developed the company based on the experience gained from people attending such events.

Stakeholders are consulted on what topics they would like to see addressed in future events and consultation is done on what improvements can be made in the future.

Our research has shown an overwhelming positive response from the Muslim community regarding the benefits gained from providing educational lectures and seminars in the English language.

Also our continued effort in arranging the Friday sermons in the English language, has brought us much wider appeal and support in the community
