PART 1 - GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE COMPANY'S ACTIVITIES AND IMPACT

In the space provided below, please insert a general account of the company's activities in the financial year to which the report relates, including a description of how they have benefited the community.

With the average person carrying less cash in their pockets than ever before, buskers are finding it increasingly difficult to survive. This limitation is compounded by councils across the UK using legislation to ban busking. The Busking Project enables street performers to receive secure mobile payments, get hired for events all over the world and find resources that will help them to defend their right to busk.

During the 2021-2022 financial year, we developed new technology that enabled us to track effectiveness of changes to our tipping systems and designed physical signs to test in the street at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival. Launched the page "The Buskers Guide" that is backed with community-generated busking facts to further help busker advocates defend their rights in courts and council meetings.

(If applicable, please just state "A social audit report covering these points is attached").

(Please continue on separate continuation sheet if necessary.)

PART 2 – CONSULTATION WITH STAKEHOLDERS – Please indicate who the company's stakeholders are; how the stakeholders have been consulted and what action, if any, has the company taken in response to feedback from its consultations? If there has been no consultation, this should be made clear.

The company's stakeholders are street performers, fans of street performers, people looking to hire buskers and academic researchers. Nick Broad (one of the directors) has filmed and interviewed hundreds of street performers, is a member of most (if not all) the online busker social groups and stays up to date with a number of busker advocates and activists in the UK. He and Liliana Maz (another director) have been working with street performers on this technology, continually getting feedback on surveys, social media and through a mailing list since 2014.

We listen to street performers' suggestions for features, we ask for feedback when we're developing new ideas, and, as with any online service, we track how the site is being used and update it accordingly – learning from buskers' actions on what they want from the site and reacting to that.
