Report of the directors

The directors present their report together with the financial statements for the year ended 31 March 2022.

The directors of the charitable company are its trustees for the purposes of charity law and throughout this report are collectively referred to as the directors. The directors serving during the year and since the year end are detailed on page 9.

OBJECTIVES AND ACTIVITIES

Mission

Engender is Scotland's feminist membership organisation. We have a vision for a Scotland in which women and men have equal opportunities in life, equal access to resources and power, and are equally safe and secure from harm.

We have worked in Scotland for over 25 years to advance equality between women and men, producing research, lobbying decision makers and empowering women to campaign for change.

We seek to increase women's power and influence; make visible the impact of sexism on women and on Scotland's social, economic and political development; and support people, organisations and our government to make equality a reality.

Engender works to build a clear picture of women's lives. We do this through research, including participatory research and engagement; and by advocating for public bodies and other organisations to gather and analyse data on men and women's different experiences.

Aims and objectives of the organisation

- To advance the education of the general public about matters relating to the relative position of men and women in Scottish society
- To promote the equality of women with men
- To relieve poverty among women
- To promote, encourage and facilitate the activities of charities and charitable activities and work with women in Scotland and elsewhere.

ACHIEVEMENTS AND PERFORMANCE 2021-2022

2021 was an incredibly challenging year for Engender, as trustees and staff grappled with the tragic news of the death of Emma Ritch, Engender's Executive Director. Engender and the wider feminist movement in Scotland were shocked by the loss of a colleague, role model, and fierce advocate for women's rights.

Despite this devastating loss, Engender continued its feminist policy work; advocating for gender-sensitive legislation, and making the case for an intersectional approach to women's equality.

With funding from the Scottish Government (Equality and Human Rights Fund)

Engender has produced accessible analysis of gender-related policy and legislation in development along with responses to consultations and calls for evidence, and parliamentary briefings. These have been widely disseminated to Engender members and other stakeholders, including policymakers, elected representatives and intermediary and advocacy organisations. Engender's responses and evidence allow for a greater understanding of the need for gender analysis to be applied to policy areas and what the gender implication for particular laws, policies and practices are for women.

The Scottish Parliament elections in 2021 took place in the context of both the Covid-19 pandemic, and the beginnings of Brexit. Our manifesto for the elections called for

- 1) A society that values and rewards those who care for us
- 2) An economy that works for women as well as it does for men
- 3) A Scotland that eradicates men's violence against women
- 4) A Scotland that guarantees women's rights
- 5) A Scotland with the highest standard of women's health and wellbeing
- 6) A Scotland where women have equal access to decision making
- 7) A Scotland where women have equal use of public space
- 8) A Scotland where our social security system ensures the dignity and security of women

The themes of our manifesto have continued throughout our engagement with the Scottish Government, Parliament, and other decision-making bodies.

Covid has continued to dominate policy discussions over the past year, as we look towards economic and social recovery from the pandemic. Engender has consistently called for a gendered approach to this work, and in particular the urgent need to recognise and value the unpaid care work done by women. We were pleased to see this acknowledged in 2021's Programme for Government, but are still to see real progress in this area. We have advocated for a strategic focus on gender equality within development of the National Care Service.

Engender has been long campaigning for the incorporation of CEDAW – the UN Bill of rights for women – into Scots Law, and we are delighted that this has now been committed to by the Scottish Government and will become a reality over the next few years. Engender sits on the Human Rights Bill Governance and Engagement Advisory Board, so will be able to help guide the process to realise our vision that women in Scotland will be able to cite their rights under CEDAW in a Scottish court.

For a number of years Engender has been calling for a standalone criminal offence based on misogyny and has been a key part of the Misogyny and Criminal Justice Working Group, since calling for its creation. In March 2022, the final report from this group by Baroness Helena Kennedy, was launched. The report recommends the creation of a Misogyny and Criminal Justice (Scotland) Act, creating:

- a new statutory aggravation of misogyny;
- an offence of stirring up hatred against women and girls;
- an offence of public misogynistic harassment;
- and an offence of issuing threats of, or invoking, rape or sexual assault or disfigurement of women and girls, online and offline.

Another long-term ask has been a Gender Audit of the Scottish Parliament and we are delighted that the Presiding Officer Alison Johnston MSP will be leading such an audit and that Engender will sit on the advisory group for it. Achieving women's equal representation in politics is about more than just looking at the numbers of elected representatives (important though this is). By examining the make-up of committees, gathering data on who is being invited to give evidence, and understanding where gender mainstreaming is not being applied, a Gender Audit will help us work towards a Scottish Parliament which creates better legislation and leads policy change across Scotland for women.

Our communications and engagement team works to increase the profile of women's equality within the public discourse. We work in partnership with equalities organisations to highlight intersectional issues and multiple discrimination and engage with media, women's organisations, and individual women to promote our analysis of women's equality and rights and our calls for change.

Engender has several communications channels that we use to share accessible information about our detailed policy work, including regular newsletters and use of social media. During this period, we produced 16 episodes of the 'On the Engender' podcast - highlighting issues of key importance to women's equality in Scotland and offering opportunities for in-depth examination of feminist issues.

We also published 46 blog posts, which covers a huge range of issues and features contributions from prominent feminist experts including those with lived experience. Our blog commissioning pot means that women are paid for their time and enables Engender to profile voices who might otherwise not be heard.

We held seven online events, including a hustings for women's equality which featured First Minister Nicola Sturgeon, consultation events for unpaid carers, and public engagement events with guest authors.

As a result of our communications and engagement work, more people in Scotland are aware of issues of women's inequality and specific policy areas. Issues of importance to women from under-represented and marginalised women have been highlighted and women from under-represented communities had their work published. There is a greater public understanding of contested areas of policy such as hate crime and the equality act.

With funding for Gender Equal Media Scotland (Scottish Government)

Engender received funding to employ a staff member to develop proposals for an established and resourced Women in Media Body for Scotland. In order to do this, it was necessary to: establish relationships with key media and equalities organisations; map existing initiatives; resources; campaigns and research, and identify gaps, both within Scotland and Internationally.

This work built on our previous engagement with academics, journalists and activists working on gender equality in the media. It has allowed us to gather a Scottish-specific evidence base on sexism in the media, and how this intersects with other under-represented groups, to inform policy solutions and to evaluate existing resources and their effectiveness of creating change within the media.

At the end of the initial phase of this project we have been able to develop a Theory of Change on developing an intersectional approach towards women's equality in Scottish media and have also developed a long-term vision for a National Equal Media and Culture Centre for Scotland.

With funding for the Equal Representation in Politics Project (Scottish Government)

The Equal Representation in Politics Project aims to help create a Scotland where our elected representatives truly reflect the diversity of the population. At present women represent 45% of MSPs and only 29% of councillors, and we know that these disparities increase for minoritized women including black and ethnic minority women, LBT women and disabled women.

The project seeks to create change through encouraging political parties to recognise the pivotal role they have in shaping who is able to access politics and ultimately over who is able to become an elected representative.

The project primarily does this by promoting and supporting parties to access the Equal Representation in Politics Toolkit, a set of self-assessment resources available on the web and as an app to support political parties to review and enhance practice around Equality, Diversity and Inclusion. It was created by a group of organisations from across the equalities sector in Scotland who together form the Equal Representation Coalition, and originally launched in 2018.

In 2021 Engender were able to employ a Development Officer to increase engagement from political parties and to strengthen the work of the coalition and has seen significant achievements in both of these areas.

With funding from Rosa, the UK fund for women and girls

In partnership with Close the Gap and the Scottish Women's Rights Centre, Engender received funding to produce a report looking at workplace sexual harassment in Scotland, summarising the evidence-base for action, and outlining proposals for change across the system.

This project saw Engender bring together experts and experts by experience to think about how systems around sexual and sexist harassment in the workplace in Scotland currently work and how they might be changed for the better. Engender convened focus groups and conducted interviews to document women's experiences of sexual and sexist harassment in Scotland, with disabled women, women of colour, Muslim women, LB+ women, trans women, young women, and women on low incomes and in precarious employment. This was done in partnership with advocacy groups that represent these respective communities: Inclusion Scotland, Pass the Mic, Amina, Equality Network, Scottish Trans Alliance, the Young Women's Movement and the Scottish Trades Union Congress. Additionally, we ran a survey calling for women to share their experiences of workplace sexual harassment and their views on how the response by employers and scrutiny systems could have been improved.

This project also included convening a working group of experts from the fields of academia, employment and discrimination law, human resources, and women's equality and human rights, and commissioning a literature review on anonymous reporting of sexual harassment and the creation of a model Sexual Harassment policy for workplaces to adopt.

This information gathering and analysis enabled us to produce a final report, detailing recommendations for employers, Scottish Government, regulators, and the Scottish Courts and Tribunal Service. We will use these findings to advocate for a Scotland where all women can equally participate in employment and public life, free from sexist and sexual harassment and discrimination.

Report of the directors

PLANS FOR FUTURE WORK

The policy domains we work on are partly demand-led, as we respond to the policy and legislative agendas of the Scottish Government and Parliament. However, our outline plans are to focus on the areas set out in our Gender Matters Roadmap/Manifesto, including gender mainstreaming, unpaid care, social security, women's human rights, and social and economic recovery from Covid-19.

We will deliver a programme of engagement that will bring specific groups of women closer to decision-makers and both enable them to create policy calls that respond to their needs and acquire the tools to advocate for them. We will work to develop the evidence base on women's equality and rights, and we will advocate for structural change so that mechanisms used in decision-making, such as the public sector equality duty and equality impact assessment, are strengthened.

Engender creates space for women's, human rights, and other equality organisations to participate in the CEDAW examination process. We will continue this work in this funding period by delivering an engagement process for organisations and women, that will support organisations to use CEDAW to advance their women's rights advocacy goals.

In parallel we will continue and intensify our work to advocate for incorporation of CEDAW and implementation mechanisms that will enable all women's organisations to use domestic law to effect policy change.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

The charity had a deficit for the year of £(82,378) (2021: surplus of £49,091). The charity's accumulated surplus stands at £205,862 (2021: surplus of £288,240) at the balance sheet date.

The Charity holds restricted funds of £50,252 (2021: £119,020) (for more detailed information see Note 12), designated funds of £6,515 (2021: £9,366) (for more detailed information see Note 12), and general funds of £149,095 (2021: £159,854).

Principal funding sources

The main funding sources for the period have been the Scottish Government, payment for consultancy work undertaken, and unrestricted membership and donation income.

Reserves policy

It is the policy of the Charity to maintain unrestricted funds, which are the free reserves of the Charity, at a level to provide sufficient funds to cover management, administration and operating costs for between three (£88k) and six months (£175k). Engender has free reserves of £143,081, which are in line with the policy.

STRUCTURE, GOVERNANCE AND MANAGEMENT

Governing document

Engender is a company limited by guarantee (number SC286639) and a registered charity (number SC029053) and is governed by its Articles of Association.

Appointment of Directors

Any Full member who wishes to be considered for election as a member of the Board of Directors at an Annual General Meeting shall nominate themselves according to the procedure set out in the Governance Handbook.

The Board of Directors may at any time co-opt any Full member, who is willing to so act, as a member of the Board of Directors. Any member so appointed shall retain office only until the next Annual General Meeting but shall then be eligible for election.

Directors' induction and training

New directors are supplied with an information pack, participate in induction sessions on governance and finances, and have access to appropriate training for directors of charities. Engender works with other national women's organisations to deliver annual external training to new trustees and trustees who require a refresher on feminist governance.

Organisational structure

The Board of Directors provides leadership for the organisation. An Executive Director provides delegated leadership of the organisation as it operates as a company.

The Board of Directors will hold at least four meetings each year. There is also an annual away-day to review organisational direction.

Risk management

The main risks facing the charity are as follows:

- i) We continue to face greater demand for our input than we are able to accommodate. We will need to make strategic decisions regarding which policy areas we are able to make the greatest impact on the advancement of women's equality. Funding for policy advocacy on women's equality and rights is not generally a priority for non-governmental funding bodies and so alternative forms of funding can be difficult to access.
- ii) The challenges created by the COVID19 pandemic and lasting impact that are not yet fully understood.
- iii) Following the tragic death of our Executive Director, Emma Ritch, the organisation faces a transitional period while our new Executive Director, Catherine Murphy establishes herself in her new post.

Engender has a risk management system that includes six-monthly Board review of the risk register and ongoing risk management discussions at each Board meeting. The organisation has mitigated all of the identified risks within its funding strategy, has sound finances and financial controls, and has an experienced and effective Board.

TRUSTEES' RESPONSIBILITIES FOR THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Company law requires the trustees to prepare financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of financial activities of the charitable company during the year and of the financial position at the end of the year. In preparing those financial statements, the trustees are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether applicable accounting standards and statements of recommended practice have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements;
- prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the charitable company will continue in business.

The trustees are responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy the financial position of the charitable company and to enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2006. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the charitable company and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

This report has been prepared in accordance with the Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) and in accordance with the special provisions relating to small companies within Part 15 of the Companies Act 2006.

INDEPENDENT EXAMINER'S REPORT ON THE UNAUDITED ACCOUNTS OF ENGENDER

I report on the accounts of the charity for the year ended 31 March 2022 which are set out on pages 12 to 22.

Respective responsibilities of trustees and examiner

The charity's trustees (who are also the directors of the company for the purposes of company law) are responsible for the preparation of the accounts in accordance with the terms of the Charities and Trustee Investment (Scotland) Act 2005 and the Charities Accounts (Scotland) Regulations 2006 (as amended).

The charity trustees consider that the audit requirement of Regulation 10(1) (a) to (c) of the 2006 Accounts Regulations does not apply. It is my responsibility to examine the accounts as required under section 44(1) (c) of the Act and to state whether particular matters have come to my attention.

Basis of independent examiner's statement

An examination is carried out in accordance with Regulation 11 of the 2006 Accounts Regulations. An examination includes a review of the accounting records kept by the charity and a comparison of the accounts presented with those records. It also includes consideration of any unusual items or disclosures in the accounts, and seeking explanations from the trustees concerning any such matters. The procedures undertaken do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, and consequently I do not express an audit opinion on view given by the accounts.

Independent examiner's statement

In the course of my examination, no matter has come to my attention

1. which gives me reasonable cause to believe that in any material respect the requirements:
 - to keep accounting records in accordance with Section 44 (1)(a) of the 2005 Act and Regulation 4 of the 2006 Accounts Regulations, and
 - to prepare accounts which accord with the accounting records and comply with Regulation 8 of the 2006 Accounts Regulationshave not been met, or
2. to which, in my opinion, attention should be drawn in order to enable a proper understanding of the accounts to be reached.

Notes to the financial statements

1 Accounting policies

Basis of preparation

The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention and in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102), the Companies Act 2006, and Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) – Charities SORP (FRS102). The financial statements are prepared in sterling, which is the functional currency of the Charity. Monetary amounts in these financial statements are rounded to the nearest £.

The charity constitutes a public benefit entity as defined by FRS 102.

The Directors consider that it is appropriate to prepare the accounts on the going concern basis as they believe that there will be sufficient funds available to meet the liabilities of the Charity as they fall due within the next 12 months.

Judgements and key sources of estimation uncertainty

The preparation of the financial statements requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported. These estimates and judgements are continually reviewed and are based on experience and other factors, including expectations of future events that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances.

Incoming resources

Income is recognised when the Charity has entitlement to the funds, any performance conditions attached to the item(s) of income have been met, it is probable that the income will be received and the amount can be measured reliably. Income from government and other grants, whether “capital” grants or “revenue” grants, is recognised when the charity has entitlement to the funds, any performance conditions attached to the grants have been met, it is probable that the income will be received and the amount can be measured reliably and is not deferred. Income is deferred only when the charity has to fulfil conditions before becoming entitled to it or where the donor has specified that the income is to be expended in a future period.

Resources expended

All expenditure is included on an accruals basis and is recognised when there is a legal or constructive obligation to pay for expenditure. All costs have been directly attributed to one of the functional categories of resources expended on the SOFA. The Charity is not registered for VAT and accordingly expenditure is shown gross of irrecoverable VAT.

Charitable expenditure comprises those costs incurred by the charity in delivery of its activities and services for its beneficiaries. It includes both costs that can be allocated directly to such activities and those costs of an indirect nature necessary to support them.

Costs of raising funds are those costs incurred in attracting voluntary income and include 1% of the Executive Director’s salary and 10% of the Head of Development’s salary.

Tangible fixed assets

Tangible fixed assets are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation. The costs of minor additions under £500 are not capitalised. Depreciation is provided at rates calculated to write off the cost less residual value of each asset over its expected useful life, as follows:

- fixtures, fittings and equipment – 25% reducing balance
- computer equipment- 33% straight line

Debtors

Trade and other debtors are recognised at the settlement amount due after any discount offered. Prepayments are valued at the amount prepaid net of any discounts due.

Creditors

Creditors and provisions are recognised where the charity has a present obligation resulting from a past event that will probably result in the transfer of funds to a third party and the amount due to settle the obligation can be measured or estimated reliably. Creditors and provisions are normally recognised at their settlement amount after allowing for any discounts due.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents are basic financial assets and include cash in hand, deposits held at call with banks, other short-term liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less, and bank overdrafts. Bank overdrafts are shown within borrowings in current liabilities.

Pensions

The pension costs charged in the financial statements represent the contribution payable by the charity during the year.

Leases

Rentals paid under operating leases are charged to the profit and loss account on a straight line basis over the period of the lease.

Fund accounting

Unrestricted funds are donations and other incoming resources received or generated for the objects of the charity without further specified purpose and are available as general funds. If parts of the unrestricted funds are earmarked at the discretion of the trustees for a particular purpose they are designated as a separate fund. Such designation has an administrative purpose only and does not legally restrict the trustees' discretion to apply the fund.

Restricted funds are funds subject to requirements as to their use, but still within the wider objects of the charity. The specific requirements as to use may either be declared by the donor or with the donor's authority, or be created through legal process

Financial instruments

Financial instruments comprise financial assets and financial liabilities which are recognised when the charity becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument. Financial instruments are classified as "basic" in accordance with FRS102 and are accounted for at amortised cost using the effective interest method. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash flows over the life of the financial assets or liability to the net carrying amount on initial recognition. Discounting is not applied to short-term receivables and payables, where the effect is immaterial. Financial assets comprise cash, trade debtors, accrued income and other debtors. Financial liabilities comprise trade creditors, other creditors and accruals.

Scottish Government Equality Intermediary (SGEI) Fund - Equal representation project - Funding to facilitate engagement with political parties to development an online tool and app to enable parties and branches in Scotland to self-assess the extent to which they are enabling diversity within their organisation at all levels, from activists to elected representatives, and to be provided with an individualised action plan to remove barriers. This was a joint project from organisations working across the protected characteristics, in order to ensure that Scotland's elected representatives truly reflect the diversity of the Scottish population – improving democracy, increasing engagement in public life, and enriching political discourse.

GEMS: The profile of Gender Equal Media Scotland project is raised with key media, equalities and cultural institutions.

Designated funds

Sue Innes Memorial Fund

The Sue Innes Fund is a designated fund set up in memory of Sue Innes, who worked for Engender and strived for equality for women during her life. The Fund is held to be used to fund a section at the Glasgow Women's Library.

Home Adaptations Fund

The Home Adaptations Fund was established to provide funds for staff to cover the additional expense of working from home and to allow for any home adaptations that may be required.

Health and Wellbeing Fund

The Health and Wellbeing Fund has been established to provide funding to meet approved applications by staff members for costs associated with addressing the physical and mental stresses resulting from the demands of working from home.

The transfer of funds in the prior year from the Unrestricted General Fund is to meet the funding requirements of the newly established designated Home Adaptations Fund and Health and Wellbeing Fund.
